Little Red Riding Hood

Part One

Once upon a time there lived a small girl. Her name was Little Red Riding Hood. She lived with her parents in a house. There was a deep, dark forest not far from their house. On the other side of the forest lived her Grandmother. And in the deep, dark forest lived a big bad Wolf.

“Grandmother is ill”, said Little Red Riding Hood’s mother one day. “Please take her this cake. But don’t stop on the way!”

So Little Red Riding Hood took the cake and went through the deep, dark forest. She looked around. There was not a sound. Then she met the big bad Wolf.

“Good day, my dear”, said the wolf. “What are you doing here? Where are you going?”

“I’m going to my grandmother to take her a cake,” said Little Red Riding Hood. The wolf had a plan.

“Will your grandmother like some of these flowers?” he asked Little Red Riding Hood and then he smiled.

“What a good idea!” said Little Red Riding Hood and she stopped to pick some flowers for her grandmother. At this time the wolf ran ahead through the deep, dark forest. At last he came to grandmother’s house. The wolf was very hungry and he knock-knock-knocked at the door.

“Hello, grandmother,” said the wolf. “It’s your granddaughter Little Red Riding Hood”.

“That sounds more like the big bad Wolf”, thought grandmother and she crept quickly under the bed.
